

Codornices Village: A Study of Non-Segregated Public Housing
in the San Francisco Bay Area

By

Helen Smith Alancraig
A.B. (New York University) 1948

THESIS

Submitted in partial satisfaction of the requirements for the degree of

MASTER OF ARTS

in

Political Science

in the

GRADUATE DIVISION of the

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA

Approved:

.....
.....
.....

Committee in Charge

Deposited in the University Library Jan., 1953
Date Librarian

CODORNICES VILLAGE: A STUDY OF NON-SEGREGATED
PUBLIC HOUSING IN THE SAN FRANCISCO BAY AREA

Chapter	Page
Introduction	i
Part I - The Evolution of Federal Public Housing Activities
I The Background of Federal Public Housing Programs. Special emphasis will be placed on the Pattern of Federally-initiated and Operated Programs	1
World War I	1
Depression Period	2
War Housing	8
Post War Housing	14
II Non-Segregation in Federally-Initiated and Operated Housing	20
III. Public Housing in the Bay Area	26
The Need for War Housing in the Bay Area	27
IV The Development of Codornices Village	34
Selecting the Site	34
Early Development	36
Attitude of the Communities	38
Part II - Race Relations
V Washington: National Policy	56
VI Regional and Local Policy	67
Regional Policy	67
Local Policy	69
City of Alameda	72
County of Marin	73
City of Oakland	79
City of Richmond	83
City & County of San Francisco	91
City of Vallejo	96

Chapter		Page
VII	Cal. 4479 (Codornices Village)	98
	The Beginning of a Segregated Occupancy Pattern	98
	Maintaining a Segregated Pattern	102
	Revising the Occupancy Pattern	104
	Development of a Program to Eliminate Segregation	107
	Community Services	112
	Attitude of the Government	115
	Attitude of the Communities	117
	Project Services	119
	Later Community Attitudes	124
	The Results of the Non-Segregation Program - Five Years Later	138
VIII	Conclusion	142
APPENDIX I - In-Service Training Course in Race Relations		I
APPENDIX II - Semi-Annual Project Services Report #1286. Part IV. Narrative Report		XII
BIBLIOGRAPHY		XVII

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

The author wishes to acknowledge her indebtedness and to express her appreciation to Robert B. Pitts for his guidance and encouragement in the organization of this paper.

In addition, she wishes to express her gratitude to the following people:

Catherine Bauer Wurster, whose continued interest has been invaluable in the completion of this work;

Henry Waller, for his untiring efforts to obtain material for this study;

Charles R. Alancraig, for his suggestions, criticisms and encouragement throughout the writing of this paper;

The many people who so willingly furnished the information which made the writing of this paper possible.